Teaching and	Teaching and learning methods
Learning Methods	The module uses an approach to learning that is primarily facilitated; in other words, students are encouraged to take responsibility for their own learning and to develop independence in their approaches to studying.
	Lectures: these provide a conceptual overview, focussing on key theories and models and on their application in group and organisational settings.
	Seminars: active and participative learning approaches are used in seminars to explore concepts in detail, to demonstrate theory in action and to provide structured opportunities for skills development. Approaches include: case studies based on Module Leaders own academic research; Culture Boxes; Use of video and TV documentary analysis; Student reflections and experiences; Role play; Simulations
	Aspects of the course will also be taught using Blackboard with interactive exercises to back up lecture and workshop activities.
Key Information	Key Information Sets (KIS) are produced at programme level for all programmes that this module contributes to, which is a requirement set by HESA/HEFCE. KIS
Sets Information	are comparable sets of standardised information about undergraduate courses allowing prospective students to compare and contrast between programmes they are interested in applying for.

Reading Strategy

Reading Strategy

All students will be encouraged to make full use of the print and electronic resources available to them through membership of the University. These include a range of electronic journals and a wide variety of resources available through web sites and information gateways. The University Library's web pages provide access to subject relevant resources and services, and to the Library catalogue. Many resources can be accessed remotely. Students will be presented with opportunities within the curriculum to develop their information retrieval and evaluation skills in order to identify such resources effectively.
