Part 2: Learning and Teaching
Learning Outcomes	On satisfactory completion of this unit students will be able to: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Critically analyse the impact of behaviour on their and others ability to act in a creative manner. (Component A1)</li> <li>2. Provide a clear explanation of how different organisational structures affect the creative process. (Component. A1)</li> <li>3. Critically analyse an organisations'/persons' strategic position and identify potential pathways for the future. (Component. A1 + A2)</li> <li>4. Identify possible career development opportunities for the future and generate a realistic plan to realise them. (Component. A2)</li> </ol>
Syllabus Outline	Content and Syllabus Building on previous units of study Professional Practice works in conjunction with External Practice Module to provide the student with greater insight into how to successfully operate and survive in his/her chosen industry or world. Regardless of whether the student intend to set up his/her own studio or workshop, pursue full time employment in a 'for-profit' business or work within an artistic institution or Non-Government Organisation (NGO) the module will provide the student with theoretical models and practical tools to help him/her better understand his/her professional environment and take control of their creative future. Professional Practice Module will explore what creativity means in an organisational and business context and the implications on the student as a practitioner or maker in both a

	personal and wider context. It will consider the value of the ‘creative’ industries and its practitioners at a macro level looking at the social, business and political forces and factors that both influence and are influenced by them. The unit will focus on how the student can apply reflective practice in a day-to-day context to improve his/her relationships building, day-to-day practice and managerial skills with particular reference to understanding the implications of his/her actions on key stakeholders perceptions and the impact this has on the creative process and their ability to function successfully in a creative environment. Seminar discussions, augmented by a series of visiting speakers from across the spectrum of the ‘creative’ industries including practicing artists, makers and designers, will explore issues such as understanding, working with and managing creative cultures, people and teams. In addition the student will also look at how to apply his/her innate creative skills to help his/her vision and take control of their future, act strategically, understand and manage their money and identify and exploit opportunities. Through discussion with their tutor and review of their practice, the students will identify and undertake research into a creative businesses or institution appropriate to their subject area. They may wish to use this opportunity to identify potential organisations and companies for professional practice links and possible work placement within the External Practice unit. Core topics may include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Definitions and value of creative industries</li> <li>Entrepreneurial business thinking</li> <li>Understanding the value of creative cultures</li> <li>Working with creative people and networks</li> <li>Mentoring and creativity</li> <li>Reflection, vision and taking control of your future</li> <li>Identifying and exploiting opportunities through marketing</li> <li>Understanding and managing your money</li> </ul>
Contact Hours/Scheduled Hours	Learning Hours 150 Contact Hours 60 Independent Learning hours 90
Teaching and Learning Methods	Whilst lectures are the principal teaching method used for the presentation of course content, a wide variety of other techniques and approaches are employed to enrich the delivery and to cater for different student learning styles and preferences. Scheduled learning includes lectures, seminars, set exercises, oral presentations, role-play, case studies, guest speakers, online surveys and tutorials. Independent learning includes hours engaged with essential reading, assignment preparation and completion etc. These sessions constitute an average time per level as indicated in the table above. Scheduled sessions may vary slightly depending on the module. Teaching and Learning Methods <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Group and Individual Tutorials</li> <li>• Seminars and Lectures</li> <li>• Specialist workshops and seminars from key practitioners</li> <li>• Work in progress reviews</li> <li>• Group Discussions</li> <li>• Presentations</li> </ul>

Reading Strategy	Required Reading List Any essential reading will be indicated clearly, along with the method for accessing it, The Alexander College library will hold copies for loan as well as copies for reference only to improve access to required texts. Students will be encouraged to obtain their own copies of required reading. The required reading list will be posted on the course website. Module guides will also reflect the range of reading to be carried out. Recommended Reading Further reading will be required to supplement the set text and other printed readings. Students are expected to identify all other reading relevant to their chosen topic for themselves. They will be required to read widely using the library search, a variety of bibliographic and full text databases, and Internet resources. Many resources can be accessed remotely. The purpose of this further reading is to ensure students are familiar with current research, classic works and material specific to their interests from the academic literature. Access and Skills The development of literature searching skills is supported by a Library seminar provided during induction week. Students will be presented with further opportunities within the course to develop their information retrieval and evaluation skills in order to identify such resources effectively. Additional support is available through the Library Services web pages, including interactive tutorials on finding books and journals, evaluating information and referencing. Indicative Reading List The following list is offered to provide validation panels/accrediting bodies with an indication of the type and level of information students may be expected to consult. As such, its currency may wane during the life span of the module specification. However, as indicated above, current advice on readings will be available via the module guide.

Further reference material relating to both generic and specialist discourses will be articulated through unit handbooks (issued at the start of the unit) and via online teaching and learning resources.

Part 3: Assessment

Assessment Strategy

Assessment Requirement

This module is being assessed on the Journal and the Professional Proposal.

Component A:

- Professional Practice Project 1 (Journal) (practical and written guided work with research work development and final work) Journal will be documenting all activities of the external practice project.
- Written Professional Proposal of 1500 – 2000 words with good evidence of academic research.

All assignments and/or projects given to students in the class are explained visually and verbally in the class by the lecturer and they require the students to undertake the required practical or/and written design work accompanying this with detailed sketchbook, research work development and final Graphic Design work (if required by particular assignment / project). (learning outcomes, assessment criteria and evidence, are analysed in detail in the project brief given to the students)

Students must also give a short presentation that will cover and analyse the work undertaken on particular project, the student must also explain the specific visual decisions taken and solutions given to problems. The student will also have to self-evaluate and analyse the evidences provided by the student that cover the needed outcomes required by the project.

All projects/assignments require a widespread piece of research and sketchbook work with evidence of self-evaluation and in some cases evaluation of the work of others. Research material must be analysed and synthesised creatively and with evidence of detailed study upon particular research. Students in our master's level must show evidence of being able to deal with complex issues both systematically and creatively, to make sound judgements in the absence of complete data, and to communicate their conclusions clearly to specialist and non-specialists. The student must comment upon findings and appraise critically current research material and advanced scholarship in the graphic design discipline. The student through these assignments/projects should establish self-direction and innovation in tackling and solving problems, and act autonomously in planning and implementing tasks at a postgraduate and professional level. Sketchbooks must always show investigation and creativity with various ideas generating techniques and approaches as well as with own comments and thoughts, images, illustrations, interviews with people, copies of text, references to books, articles, magazines, websites etc.

During each project / assignment, students are formatively assessed through the presentation of their work at feedback sessions, during which they may be asked to explain and justify their work and to demonstrate the process of development, thinking and research. Other learners and lecturers are normally present and are invited to contribute to the discussion. We always welcome undergraduate students to participate in these presentations.

Component B

	Summative assessment feedback For each assessment which is marked and graded, students will be provided with an Assignment Feedback Sheet which will show the marks awarded and will contain formative feedback comments to explain how the marks were awarded and offer advice about how to improve.
