Part 2: Learning and Teaching
Learning Outcomes	On successful completion of this module students will be able to: Subject-specific skills: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Demonstrate an understanding of the key concepts of Syntax, Linguistic Typology and Psycholinguistics (Components A and B) • Demonstrate the ability to analyse data from a range of languages syntactically (component A) • Demonstrate an understanding of the relationship between language and culture across a range of languages (Component A) • Understand how language is organized in the minds of speakers (Component B) • Demonstrate an understanding of the practical applications of psycholinguistics, including speech therapy (Component B) • Communicate effectively and fluently (Component B) • Work independently, demonstrating initiative, self-organisation and time management (Component B) In addition the educational experience may explore, develop, and practise but not formally discretely assess the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The ability to work as a member of a group • An understanding of how the skills learnt in this module can lead to future employment

Syllabus Outline	Teaching block 1: syntax, linguistic typology and language & culture <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Simple and complex sentences • The building blocks of sentences: phrases and constituents • Grammatical relations and voice structures • Linguistic typology • The link between language and culture Teaching block 2: Psycholinguistics and speech therapy <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Word production: finding words and building words • Gestures in production and comprehension • Word comprehension: reading and hearing words • When things go wrong: aphasia and other conditions • Speech therapy
Contact Hours	72 contact hours allocated as follows: Weekly lecture, workshop and seminar per week. Workshop and seminar time may involve as appropriate: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • In-class discussions • Online-quizzes • Exercises • Group work • Virtual sessions • Question and answer sessions In addition, students will have the following scheduled activity: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Support through the PAL (Peer Assisted Learning Programme) at UWE and the following unscheduled activity: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Field work and work-based learning • Feedforward and feedback through personal tutorials through their subject tutor and Academic Personal Tutor.
Teaching and Learning Methods	Scheduled learning Weekly lectures will present information and outline current debates in the field, and may also be used interactively depending on the content being delivered. Seminars will provide an environment for students to broaden their grasp of these areas through interrogation, analysis and both independent and collaborative work. The workshop space will be used flexibly depending on content being covered and perceived student need and may include any of the learning opportunities outlined in the above section. Independent learning This will include hours engaged with essential reading and exercises in preparation for seminars and assessed work. Independent work will also be oriented towards assignment preparation and completion and where necessary towards material assessed by an unseen exam.
Key Information Sets Information	Key Information Sets (KIS) are produced at programme level for all programmes that this module contributes to, which is a requirement set by HESA/HEFCE. KIS are comparable sets of standardised information about undergraduate courses allowing prospective students to compare and contrast between programmes they are interested in applying for.

Reading Strategy

Essential Reading

Any essential reading will be indicated clearly, along with the method for accessing it, e.g. students may be expected to purchase a set text, be given a study pack or be referred to texts that are available electronically, or in the Library. Module handbooks will also reflect the range of reading to be carried out.

Further Reading

Further reading is advisable for this module, and students will be encouraged to explore at least one of the titles held in the library on this topic. A current list of such titles will be given in the module handbook and revised annually.

Access and Skills

Support in accessing library resources is available through the library Services web pages, including interactive tutorials on finding books and journals, evaluating information and referencing. Further training in using the library is offered by the library team.

Careers Resources

Support is available from the Careers Service on how to use the careers resources. Students will be made aware of these facilities, and encouraged to explore them, at points in the module where it appears relevant.

Indicative Reading List

Indicative Reading List

The following is an indicative reading list for validation purposes. More current advice on reading is provided in the module handbook each year and in other more frequently updated sources.

Cutler, Anne (2013) Twenty-First Century Psycholinguistics: Four cornerstones. Abingdon: Routledge.
 Harley (2010) Talking the talk. Hove: Psychology Press.
 Harley (2013) The Psychology of Language. Psychology Press. 4th edition.
 Tallerman, Maggie (2011) Understanding Syntax. Hodder Education. 3rd edition.
 Velupillai, Viveka (2012) An introduction to linguistic typology. Amsterdam: John Benjamins.
 Warren, Paul (2012) Introducing Psycholinguistics. Cambridge University Press.

Part 3: Assessment

Assessment Strategy	Building on the skills in morphological analysis developed at level 1, the students focus on the analysis of sentences from a typological perspective. The later weeks of the first teaching block are dedicated to the link between language and culture, drawing particularly on the syntactic and typological skills developed in the first weeks. During the teaching block, formative feedback on a range of practical exercises will be available. The final assessment for TB1 is a two-hour exam, consisting of a practical syntactic analysis as well as essay questions exploring concepts in language typology and language & culture discussed during the term. In the second teaching block, students learn about psycholinguistics, drawing on a number of skills developed so far (including the analysis of words and sentences). Alongside the theoretical aspects, students will be introduced to practical applications of the field, such as speech therapy. The assessment for TB2 is an essay of 2000 words, for which students can choose from a range of essay questions dealing with practical or academic applications of psycholinguistics (these questions will be specified in the module handbook each year). Students will have to relate their finding to the theoretical issues discussed throughout the teaching block as part of the assignment. While preparing the final piece of coursework, students will have access to formative feedback on their initial outlines and abstracts for their essays.
