student's programme of study.

Students will be exposed to a variety of different learning activities which may include the following:

- Conventional lectures
- Presentations and group activity
- Case study analysis
- Interactive games

The study time associated with the module is based on 10:1 ratio of notional student study hours to credit value.

Part 3: Assessment

Component A: Group marketing audit and infographic poster (50%)

This is a group activity undertaken by a team with no more than five members. Students select a brand from a set list and undertake a marketing audit, presenting their findings in an A4 document (the 'Appendix of Findings') which includes MACRO/MICRO analyses, a TOWS analysis and prioritisation of two critical success factors (CSFs). Students also create a full colour A3 infographic poster as a graphical representation of the two CSFs prioritised and the MACRO/MICRO analyses that informed them. Team working is assessed through a question and answer session with each group.

The resit for Component A is a report which asks students explain the purpose and process of conducting MACRO/MICRO analyses and a TOWS analysis. Students are also asked to write a critical reflection which explains how their approach to groupwork has improved and developed since their first attempt at (or non-submission of) Component A, and discusses how they will change their approach to groupwork assessments in the future.

Component B: Individual report (50%)

Building on Component A and using evidence collected over the course of the marketing audit, students provide an overview of their brand, introduce one of the CSFs previously identified, describe the brand's existing marketing mix, and make substantiated recommendations as to how the brand's marketing mix should be altered/developed/enhanced on the basis of the CSF chosen.

The resit for Component B is a report which asks the students to provide an overview of their brand, explain their CSF, describe different approaches for segmenting a market, and make substantiated recommendations for how their brand's marketing mix should be altered on the basis of the CSF chosen. Students are also asked to write a critical reflection which explains how their approach to report writing has improved and developed since their first attempt at (or non-submission of) Component B, and discusses actions they might take in the future to continue to improve their written assignments.

Formative assessment strategies, such as a direct questioning, peer assessment and feedback, will be utilised throughout the module delivery to assist students to have a clear understanding of the module learning outcomes and how they will be assessed, and to give students the opportunity to set their own goals.
