Part 2: Learning and Teaching
Learning Outcomes	On successful completion of this module students will be able to:
	 Integrate learning from a range of different disciplines and approaches (underpinned by prior programme learning) to holistically explore complex organisational situations. (Component A)
	 Effectively engage in practice-based learning through the application of a range of theoretical approaches, analytical techniques and tools, to develop and implement strategic recommendations for achieving project objectives (Component A)
	3. Understand and critically evaluate different conceptual frameworks of the management of individual and organisational change. (Component B)
	4. Systematically understand the interrelationship of organisation theory and organisational practice. (Components A and B)
	5. Reflect critically on the ethical dilemmas and challenges of organisational change. (Components A & B)
	 Explore the concept of personal resilience and develop reflexive self- awareness. (Component B)
	 Identify the need for personal change to achieve their preferred futures. (Component B)

	 The sessions combine formal tutor input such as lectures and seminar/workshops with a wide range of participative activities including case studies, individual and group-problem solving activities, simulation, student-led discussions of existing research and article reviews. There is a strong emphasis on linking learning from directed readings to their application in the workplace, including implications for organisational and individual change. The project-based learning experience is based on group work and provides an opportunity for students to apply their learning from core modules across their programme of study to a business project and to develop resilient and sustainable approaches to dealing with uncertainty and complex organisational environments. It encourages students to confront the challenges of group work and to engage actively with notions of organisational citizenship. The project culminates in a presentation that requires students to present project performance outcomes. In addition, students' reflections on both project outcomes and process promote wider learning from the project experience.
	Students will be directed towards the University Library online resources for the development of skills appropriate to the level and style of the module. Students will be directed on how the resources on this site should be used to develop the skills that will underpin their studies in the module handbook and/or via Blackboard. Extensive use will be made of Blackboard to support students' learning, to facilitate interactions between students and as a repository for students' own work thereby promoting a sense of learning community.
