Reading Strategy

Core readings

Any essential reading will be indicated clearly, along with the method for accessing it, e.g. students may be required to purchase a set text, be given a print study pack or be referred to texts that are available electronically or in the Library. Module guides will also reflect the range of reading to be carried out.

Further readings

Further reading will be required to supplement the set text and other printed readings. Students are expected to identify all other reading relevant to their chosen topic for themselves. They will be required to read widely using the library search, a variety of bibliographic and full text databases, and Internet resources. Many resources can be accessed remotely. The purpose of this further reading is to ensure students are familiar with current research, classic works and material specific to their interests from the academic literature.

Access and skills

The development of literature searching skills is supported by a Library seminar provided within the first semester. Students will be presented with further opportunities within the curriculum to develop their information retrieval and evaluation skills in order to identify such resources effectively. Additional support is available through the Library Services web pages, including interactive tutorials on finding books and journals, evaluating information and referencing. Sign up workshops are also offered by the Library.

Indicative Reading List

The following list is offered to provide validation panels/accrediting bodies with an indication of the type and level of information students may be expected to consult. As such, its currency may wane during the life span of the module specification. However, as indicated above, CURRENT advice on readings will be available via other more frequently updated mechanisms.

Part 3: Assessment

Assessment	Strategy
733633111611	Jualeur

This module covers approaches to working with couples, families and groups. It requires to students to critically evaluate theories in this area, whilst reflecting on their own practice and experience. The strategy therefore is that students will have the opportunity to present on depth on a particular topic, whilst a written report will allow them to synthesise material across a wider breadth whilst reflecting on their own experiential learning and practice.

Component A therefore is a presentation aimed at assessing more formal aspects of learning on a focussed topic, while component B aims at assessing practice based elements of learning and application of theories and concepts, as indicated against learning outcomes above. Formative assessment will be part of workshop based activities.
