Lectures provide an introduction to relevant topics and areas of enquiry and disseminate the key subject knowledge which is fundamental to developing sociological understanding. This is explored and enhanced in seminars, symposia and tutorials which enable students to apply this knowledge and understanding to a range of social institutions. Follow up of lectures and preparation for seminars and symposia forms a key element of independent learning. Teaching and learning are supported by Blackboard which provides on-line and remote access to teaching and learning resources and a platform for student assessment and feedback. Scheduled learning includes: Lectures: Essential for introducing the topics and areas of enquiry and disseminating key subject knowledge. Seminars: Enables students to work in groups in order to explore topics and apply knowledge and understanding in relation to 'real world' issues, problems and phenomena. Symposia: Designed to enhance knowledge and understanding by promoting a broader discussion and debate of the relevant issues, problems and phenomena based on engaging critically with relevant non-academic source materials e.g. films, documentaries. Tutorials: Enable students to deepen their knowledge and understanding by engaging in a more focused and in-depth discussion with module tutors.
Key Information Sets Information	Key Information Sets (KIS) are produced at programme level for all programmes that this module contributes to, which is a requirement set by HESA/HEFCE. KIS are comparable sets of standardised information about undergraduate courses allowing prospective students to compare and contrast between programmes they are interested in applying for. <table border="1" data-bbox="400 1491 1426 1883"> <thead> <tr> <th colspan="4">Information Set - Module data</th> </tr> </thead> <tbody> <tr> <td colspan="3">credits for this module</td> <td style="border: 2px solid black; text-align: center;">30</td> </tr> <tr> <th>Scheduled learning and teaching study hours</th> <th>Independent study hours</th> <th>Placement study hours</th> <th>Allocated Hours</th> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: center;">72</td> <td style="text-align: center;">228</td> <td style="text-align: center;">0</td> <td style="text-align: center;">300</td> </tr> </tbody> </table>  The table below indicates as a percentage the total assessment of the module which constitutes a - Written Exam: Unseen written exam, open book written exam, In-class test Coursework: Written assignment or essay, report, dissertation, portfolio, project	Information Set - Module data				credits for this module			30	Scheduled learning and teaching study hours	Independent study hours	Placement study hours	Allocated Hours	72	228	0	300

Reading Strategy

Core readings

Any essential reading will be indicated clearly, along with the method for accessing it, e.g. students may be expected to purchase a set text, be given a study pack or be referred to texts that are available electronically, or in the Library. Module guides will also reflect the range of reading to be carried out.

Further readings

All students are encouraged to read widely using the library catalogue, a variety of bibliographic and full text databases and Internet resources. Many resources can be accessed remotely. Guidance to some key authors and journal titles available through the Library will be given in the Module Guide and updated annually. Assignment reference lists are expected to reflect the range of reading carried out.

Access and skills

Students are expected to be able to identify and retrieve appropriate reading. This module offers an opportunity to further develop information skills introduced at Level 1. Students will be given the opportunity to attend sessions on selection of appropriate databases and search skills. Additional support is available through the Library Services web pages, including interactive tutorials on finding books and journals, evaluating information and referencing. Sign-up workshops are also offered by the Library.

Indicative Reading List

The following list is offered to provide validation panels/accrediting bodies with an indication of the type and level of information students may be expected to consult. As such, its currency may wane during the life span of the module specification. Current advice on additional reading will be available via the module guide or Blackboard pages.

Part 3: Assessment
Assessment Strategy	The assessments are designed to enable students to apply their sociological knowledge and understanding to 'real world' issues and problems with a view, where appropriate, to developing a critical engagement with forms of public action. The coursework in particular is designed to ensure that the learning outcomes are addressed by identifying relevant elements explicitly in the rubrics. The assessments are weighted slightly towards the coursework component in recognition of the specific learning outcomes that are to be achieved through them. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Report (2000 Words): Enables the students to demonstrate a detailed empirical knowledge and sociological understanding of how and why social inequalities are manifested in relation to social institutions and to identify relevant forms of public action that stem from this sociological analysis. • Essay (2000 words): Enables the students to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of social inequalities and diversity drawing upon relevant sociological concepts and applying it within an historical and comparative framework. • Exam (Two hours): Enables the students to show a critical awareness of the differing sociological explanations for social inequalities and diversity drawing upon relevant sociological theories and debates and empirical materials. The assessments are mainly summative. The feedback from the pieces of coursework will be formative as well as summative.
