Teaching and Learning Methods	Scheduled Learning Includes lectures, seminars, tutorials where appropriate, assignment supervision, practical demonstration/observation.
	Teaching and Learning Strategy of the module is organised using a blend of lectures and seminars. The split being a lecture supported by a seminar. This is supported with essential reading, case study preparation, assignment preparation and completion of an assignment and preparation for the examination.
	Independent Learning Students will be required to engage with essential reading, case study preparation, assignment preparation and completion.
	Virtual Learning Environment (VLE) This module is supported by a VLE where students will be able to find all necessary module information. Direct links to information sources will also be provided from with the VLE.
Key Information Sets Information	Key information sets (KIS) are produced at programme level for all programmes that this module contributes to, which is a requirement set by HESA/HEFCE. KIS are comparable sets of standardised information about undergraduate courses allowing prospective students to compare and contrast between programmes they are interested in applying for.				IS are comparable prospective

Reading Strategy	Core readings Any essential read e.g. students may referred to texts th reflect the range of	be required to pur at are available el	chase a set text, b ectronically or in th	be given a print s

	 Further readings Further reading will be required to supplement the set text and other printed readings. Students are expected to identify all other reading relevant to their chosen topic for themselves. They will be required to read widely using the library search, a variety of bibliographic and full text databases, and Internet resources. Many resources can be accessed remotely. The purpose of this further reading is to ensure students are familiar with current research, classic works and material specific to their interests from the academic literature. Access and skills Formal opportunities for students to develop their library and information skills are provided within the induction period and study skills sessions. Additional support is available through online resources. This includes interactive tutorials on finding books and journals, evaluation information and referencing. Sign up workshops are also offered.
Indicative Reading List	The following list is offered to provide validation panels/accrediting bodies with an indication of the type and level of information students may be expected to consult. As such, its currency may wane during the life span of the module specification. However, as indicated above, CURRENT advice on readings will be available via other more frequently updated mechanisms, including the module guide.
