Contact hours	Over a period of four months, students will have access to the following resources: Contact time with staff: 16 hours (2 days) face to face teaching 4 hours group tutorials 4 hours individual tutorials Online sessions: Up to 30 hours online learning, included related exercises
Teaching and Learning Methods	This blended learning module will be delivered in the form of one two-day workshop and a series of related online sessions and support tutorials. The highly interactive face-to-face teaching sessions will use a variety of methods, including lecture input, experiential exercises and group discussions. The online sessions consist of lectures supported with power point presentations, case study exercises and materials, film and project work. Students are required to use their work experience and personal insights on the module, and peer learning will be encouraged through small group work, student presentations and projects. A course journal will encourage personal reflection on the material presented and its relevance to the work of students beyond the course. There is a strong emphasis on reflexive practice on this module, which requires ongoing self-reflection at all points of the learning experience. For assessment, students will be required to produce a learning portfolio, comprising evidence of reflexive learning (such as a journal) and an inquiry project. Students will have ongoing access to an online tutor to discuss their assessment.
Reading Strategy and indicative Reading List	Core readings Any essential reading will be indicated clearly, along with the method for accessing it, e.g. students may be required to purchase a set text, be given a print study pack or be referred to texts that are available electronically or in the Library. Module guides will also reflect the range of reading to be carried out. Further readings Further reading will be required to supplement the set text and other printed readings. Students are expected to identify all other reading relevant to their chosen topic for themselves. They will be required to read widely using the library search, a variety of bibliographic and full text databases, and Internet resources. Many resources can be accessed remotely. The purpose of this further reading is to ensure students are familiar with current research, classic works and material specific to their interests from the academic literature. Access and skills The development of literature searching skills is supported by a Library seminar provided within the first semester. Students will be presented with further opportunities within the curriculum to develop their information retrieval and evaluation skills in order to identify such resources effectively. Additional support is available through the Library Services web pages, including interactive tutorials on finding books and journals, evaluating information and referencing. Sign up workshops are also offered by the Library. Indicative reading list The following list is offered to provide validation panels/accrediting bodies with an indication of the type and level of information students may be expected to consult. Part 3: Assessment
Assessment strategy	This course is highly interactive and draws on participants own experiences to develop a theoretical and reflexive analysis of 'real world' examples. Students will be required to present a portfolio of work comprised of a reflexive learning journal written over the course of the module that includes reflection on theory, experience and practice. Relevant extracts from this journal will be submitted as part of the assessment for the module. Linked to this is an inquiry project that includes reflection on a current example of practice as part of portfolio assessment In this way the learning and reflection that is engaged in throughout the module is directly incorporated into the assessment strategy for the module.
