Reading Strategy	Core readings Any essential reading will be indicated clearly, along with the method for accessing it, e.g. students may be required to purchase a set text, be given a print study pack or be referred to texts that are available electronically or in the Library. Module guides will also reflect the range of reading to be carried out.
	Further readings Further reading will be required to supplement the set text and other printed readings. Students are expected to identify all other reading relevant to their chosen topic for themselves. They will be required to read widely using the library search, a variety of bibliographic and full text databases, and Internet resources. Many resources can be accessed remotely. The purpose of this further reading is to ensure students are familiar with current research, classic works and material specific to their interests from the academic literature.
	Access and skills Formal opportunities for students to develop their library and information skills are provided within the induction period and study skills sessions. Additional support is available through online resources. This includes interactive tutorials on finding books and journals, evaluation information and referencing. Sign up workshops are also offered.
Indicative Reading List	The following list is offered to provide validation panels/accrediting bodies with an indication of the type and level of information students may be expected to consult. As such, its currency may wane during the life span of the module specification. However, as indicated above, CURRENT advice on readings will be available via other more frequently updated mechanisms.

Students are assessed on their ability to reflect on their experiences in a relevant vocational setting, their ability to identify their continuing professional development needs and how these needs can form the basis of a career plan. The portfolio will assess how well students are able to reflect critically on their work placement experience. Students will gain developmental and supportive supervision from an agreed placement provider and clinical educator during the agreed placement period. This learning journey will be reflected in the placement portfolio through reflection of clinical experiences. The oral presentation will demonstrate students' verbally communicative abilities to identify their strengths and weaknesses, reflect on the holistic experience with a view to constructing a personal professional development plan.
