Part 2: Description

Overview: Not applicable

Features: Not applicable

Educational aims: This module is a 'core' module in terms of BA(Hons) Business & Event Management programme. In this module you will examine the term 'Events' and learn about the contexts around which events are produced and consumed. You will look into some of the social sciences and how their principles affect events as well as looking at direct impacts that come from events. You will also examine some of the key concepts, theories and models related to event design & experience, as well as understanding the importance of marketing, sustainability and regulation.

This module is designed to develop a strong sense of identity amongst the BA(Hons) Business and Events Management cohort, and to provide a firm basis for the remainder of the degree.

Outline syllabus: You will cover:

Defining and classifying events

History of events

Ways of thinking about events

Event audiences – typologies

Event Marketing & Communications

Event design & experience

Events and regulation

Events & the Social Sciences (social benefits for individuals and communities, barriers to participation, needs and wants)

The impacts of events: Economic / Social & Environmental

Sustainable and responsible development in/through events

PESTEL forces that influence the production & consumption of events - (demographic change, new technologies)

You will also build on the following:

Academic skills, information literacy with particular focus on events management

We will seek to bring guest lecturers into relevant sessions and where appropriate to give some 'real world' context to the module.

Part 3: Teaching and learning methods

Teaching and learning methods: Teaching will comprise of a mixture of lectures, tutorials and lectures in context. This will allow students to not only learn key concepts, ideas and frameworks from the module, but also to apply them during tutorial sessions.

Module Learning outcomes: On successful completion of this module students will achieve the following learning outcomes.

MO1 Develop knowledge of events as a discipline and how it fits into the current organisational structure of businesses

MO2 Understand the role and relevance of business enquiry to student's academic and professional context, specifically events management

MO3 Demonstrate the ability to identify, analyse and evaluate sources of industry and academic events management information, considering their origins, context and content

MO4 Have started to develop critical thinking skills - identifying strengths and weaknesses in technique, analysis and conclusions of existing research

MO5 Present and reflect upon professional development skills and action plan

MO6 Produce written work appropriate to the programme of study, observing the conventions of academic writing including referencing

Hours to be allocated: 150
