Part 2: Description

Overview: Not applicable

Features: Not applicable

Educational aims: See Learning Outcomes.

Outline syllabus: This module covers the major developments in international relations, politics and society during the interwar period. We look at the formation and the actions of the League of Nations and other forms of transnationalism, the Russian Revolution and its challenge to the international order, the rise of authoritarian and fascist regimes across Europe and their contribution to the two world wars, the failure of liberal democracy, the challenge to Western dominance from Japan and the role of the United States in a globalising world. We will also look at the development of mass popular cultures and lifestyles and artistic responses to this period of flux, development and crisis. The in depth study of this period will enrich their historical understanding and also help students in module choice at Levels 2 and 3.

Part 3: Teaching and learning methods

Teaching and learning methods: See Assessment.
