learning as socialisation

barriers to learning and wellbeing

Innovation and Creativity in development of training modules for organisations

Part 3: Teaching and learning methods

Teaching and learning methods: Students will be expected to allocate time to the topic sessions – these will be via online delivery and to attend workshops. They will also be expected to engage in further reading and group based online discussions as well as independent study.

Scheduled learning: includes online lectures, and core reading and scheduled discussions and face to face workshops.

Independent Learning: includes hours engaged with additional reading and asynchronous online discussions as well as assignment preparation and completion.

Virtual Learning: This module will be supported by a range of online learning environments, such as Blackboard where a wide range of course materials will be available. Students will be expected to access and engage with these materials throughout the module. Discussion boards will be enabled for student use and facilitated/moderated by the module leader.

Module Learning outcomes: On successful completion of this module students will achieve the following learning outcomes.

MO1 Critically evaluate learning theories, skill acquisition and individual development

MO2 Critically evaluate the training cycle of needs, with specific focus on transfer of training

MO3 Critique the organisational and social factors in training and development

MO4 Critically reflect on personal learning and development through coaching and appraisal

Hours to be allocated: 150

Contact hours:

Independent study/self-guided study = 70 hours

Face-to-face learning = 80 hours

Total = 150

Part 4: Assessment

Assessment strategy: The assessments on this module are focused on demonstrating a critical understanding of the core areas of learning, training and development through two pieces of written work. These will evaluate key knowledge in this field. Opportunities to reflect on the key theories and evidence in terms of formative feedback will take place throughout the module workshops. Formative feedback on these approaches will be covered through workshop activities, as well as group discussions both online and face to face.

The portfolio will assess students' ability to understand key concepts in the field of L&D and the relationship between theory and practice. The reflective part requires students to reflect on their involvement in a training session. Students should critically evaluate the training cycle, with specific focus on the transfer of training into organisations. It is expected that they will take into account organisational learning perspectives within the context of training. This assessment evaluates the students' abilities in synthesising and evaluating psychological evidence regarding learning, training and development.

Resit will be the same as the initial first sit.
