Section 2: Programme Overview, Aims and Learning Outcomes

Part A: Programme Overview, Aims and Learning Outcomes

Overview: The English with Writing Programme encourages students to produce academic work of the highest caliber by achieving the stipulated learning outcomes for all of their modules. Students are advised to engage in extra-curricular activities, such as joining the English Society. Students are also encouraged to undertake work experience in relevant fields. At level 3 the Kate Fullbrook Award is presented to the student who best exemplifies achievement in adversity; the Keith Davey Memorial Prize for the best English Independent Project is awarded to the highest achieving student on the module.

Educational Aims: The educational aims of Programme are to:

Provide a current curriculum which offers depth within and breadth across the subject area through distinctive modules based on staff expertise;

Provide students with a thorough knowledge of English literary culture by exposing them to canonical and non-canonical texts from the Renaissance to the twenty-first century;

Provide students with an understanding of the social, cultural, and political histories from which different media and cultural institutions, modes of communication, practices and structures have emerged;

Develop students' critical practices that stress the crucial balance between close reading and theoretical/contextual models of interpretation;

Extend students' knowledge of the historical and intellectual frames of reference from which literature and public discourse emerge;

Offer a distinctively varied learning and assessment portfolio which encourages the development of analytic skills, creative expression and critical argument;

Provide a supportive and responsive framework for students' academic, personal and professional development;

Provide intellectually challenging and student-focused teaching that is informed and enriched by staff research;

Offer distinctive and varied teaching practices, including individual tutorials, student-led seminars, lectorials, lectures, workshops and virtual learning teaching environments;

Foster a progressive academic culture in which students mature and develop independence over the course of their degree;

Offer a compulsory curriculum that develops outward-facing, employable students who are fully conscious of the transferable value of their subject-specific knowledge and skills;

Enable students to practise their subject-specific knowledge and skills in real working environments through work placements;

Offer modules that engage and connect with cognate programmes across the faculty, facilitating integrated learning opportunities;

Offer opportunities that address UWE's wider agenda, such as childhood studies, the creative industries, and sustainability;

Develop students' skills in relevant software programmes;

Develop students' awareness of the societal role of communication systems and modes of representation;

Offer opportunities to develop a broad range of writing skills including creative, professional and commercial practices.

Programme Learning Outcomes:

Part C: Higher Education Achievement Record (HEAR) Synopsis

The English with Writing Programme encourages students to produce academic work of the highest caliber by achieving the stipulated learning outcomes for all of their modules. Students are advised to engage in extra-curricular activities, such as joining the English Society. Students are also encouraged to undertake work experience in relevant fields. At level 3 the Kate Fullbrook Award is presented to the student who best exemplifies achievement in adversity; the Keith Davey Memorial

Prize for the best English Independent Project is awarded to the highest achieving student on the module.

Part D: External Reference Points and Benchmarks

Description of how the following reference points and benchmarks have been used in the design of the programme:

QAA UK Quality Code for HE
National qualification framework
Subject benchmark statements
University strategies and policies

The learning outcomes that underlie the educational aims of the UWE undergraduate English with Writing programme are broadly in line with QAA Benchmark Statement (2007) and FHEQ qualification descriptors (2008). Learning outcomes are level-specific, increasing in terms of sophistication and complexity with each level. The learning outcomes of UWE English with Writing increasingly involve creative opportunities in line with the QAA Benchmark Standards (2007). In the case of the English Independent Project, which has several types of assessment, specific learning outcomes clearly express the equivalence of the range of projects. Assessments operate within QAA benchmarking guidelines and within the regulatory framework offered by the University's 'Academic Regulations and Procedures' and 'The Academic Quality Management and Enhancement Framework.' Staff research feeds into modules at various levels, and in particular at level three, where modules are created in line with staff expertise as well as what will develop and be of practical use to our students in the workplace. Students are encouraged to attend staff research papers and activities. We have consulted closely with Careers, and part of the programme development was informed by a UWE Learning and Teaching Fellowship project run by a member of the team. Employability skills are developed across modules through appropriate methods of teaching and learning to improve students' employment prospects.

What methods have been used in the development of this programme to evaluate and improve the quality and standards of learning? This could include consideration of stakeholder feedback from, for example current students, graduates and employers.

Formal and informal student feedback (e.g., Student Representative Staff Forum, Module Evaluation);

Annual staff peer-review whereby colleagues observe one another's sessions and share good practice;

English Academic Review 2012 which included feedback from current and former students as well as external colleagues;

The utilisation of advice and supporting material from Careers to enhance the delivery of the employability-related aspects of the Programme;

The findings of the university-wide assessment and feedback project led by the English Teaching and Learning Fellow;

Annual Away Day reflections upon students' learning experience;

Ongoing review of the Curriculum to ensure quality and standards.

Part E: Regulations

Approved to University Regulations and Procedures.
