Teaching and Learning Methods: The module is delivered by way of a blended learning approach using live time collaborate on-line lectures as the centre piece for study and around which other student centred learning activities are employed including group work, recorded lectures, tutor hours and formative exercises. The live contact commitment is five fortnightly two hour sessions, Email discussion groups and virtual learning environments (VLEs) and other technology-aided means are also employed. It can also take place in a work-based setting.

The study hours for the module credit is based on the following:

Face to Face or Online lectures: 14 hours
 Workshops offered online or face to face: 8 hours
 Reading pre and post sessions: 38 hours
 Accessing recorded lectures: 19 hours
 Studying work file and related activities: 47 hours
 Preparation and participation in Assessment 24 hours

This course can be studied either with attendance, or as a distance learning course. Students who attend can expect a range of teaching and learning methods to include lectures, seminars, and discussion groups using case study materials. Those taking this by distance learning will receive the same learning materials, and will, in addition expect to have regular on line attendance through tutorials conducted via the university's virtual learning environment. Use will also be made of the discussion facilities in Blackboard to ensure that distance learning students are actively engaged in their learning.

The module will be delivered by means of a series of face to face or on-line lectures and directed reading examining the key principles and relevant legal criteria relating to a number of topics of importance to construction professionals by bringing together the contractual and strategic aspects of construction and commercial law. Face to face or On-line Lectures will be used to enable students to support their own independent learning by exploring deeper practical and legal issues and receiving formative feedback. Occasional speakers will be used to provide up to date material and context to the applications of the subject area.

Presentations by and to the group by the students will also be used to enable students to develop the skills and capabilities to analyse problems, negotiate, make decisions and present solutions to problems.

The formative work in the presentation will be supportive to the final assessments as they will provide research material useful to the presentation. The module will be delivered by means of a series of face to face or on-line lectures and directed reading examining the key principles and relevant legal criteria relating to a number of topics of importance to construction professionals by bringing together the contractual and strategic aspects of construction and commercial law. Lectures and seminars will be used to enable students to support their own independent learning by exploring deeper practical and legal issues and receiving formative feedback.

Part 3: Assessment

The Presentation method of assessment have been chosen as this assesses the learning outcomes of the model as well as embedding the pervasive skill of presentation. The students will record their presentation and upload their submission for assessment by the tutors.
