Contact Hours	Learning in the module is achieved through a combination of class-based activity, Problem-Based Learning (PBL) activities, student-led discussions and independent study. There are classroom sessions (or equivalent activities) for two hours each week over 12 weeks and these are designed to actively support the development of independent learning strategies by the students.
Teaching and Learning Methods	Learning in the module is achieved through a combination of class based activity and independent study. The classroom sessions are designed to actively support the development of independent learning strategies by the students. The sessions combine formal lecturing with a wide range of participative activities including case studies, problem solving activities and group discussion. The sessions require a significant amount of preparation by the students in advance and they are issued with a course handout detailing the overall aims of the module together with expected reading and questions to be addressed. Students are encouraged to relate the knowledge and skills gained through the course to the working environment in a creative way and to find competent solutions to current issues in meeting customer needs in both internal and external market contexts. The independent study includes both preparatory reading for class sessions as well as reading that expands and deepens knowledge obtained through the class sessions. Resources such as the University Library as well as the study skills web pages will aid learning.

Scheduled learning includes lectures, seminars, tutorials, project supervision, demonstration, practical classes and workshops; fieldwork; external visits; work based learning; supervised time in studio/workshop.

Independent learning includes hours engaged with essential reading, case study preparation, assignment preparation and completion etc. These sessions constitute an average time per level as indicated in the table below. Scheduled sessions may vary slightly depending on the module choices you make.

Reading Strategy

All students will be encouraged to make full use of the print and electronic resources available to them through membership of the University. These include a range of electronic journals and a wide variety of resources available through web sites and information gateways. The University Library's web pages provide access to subject relevant resources and services, and to the library catalogue. Many resources can be accessed remotely. Students will be presented with opportunities within the curriculum to develop their information retrieval and evaluation skills in order to identify such resources effectively.

Essential reading

The module will draw heavily from a textbook that all students are expected to purchase.

- Lovelock, C. & Wirtz, J. (2011) Services Marketing: People, Technology, Strategy, 7th Edition, Pearson,
- Slack, N., Chambers, S. & Johnston, R. (2007) Operations Management, 5th Edition, Prentice Hall.

but specific details of the text will be updated annually in the module book issued to all students. Where students are referred to other essential reading they will either be provided with copies of sources or those sources will be available through the University Library.

Indicative Reading List	The following list is offered to provide validation panels/accrediting bodies with an indication of the type and level of information students may be expected to consult. As such, its currency may wane during the life span of the module specification. However, as indicated above, CURRENT advice on readings will be available via other more frequently updated mechanisms. Books: Brassington, F. & Pettitt, S. Part 3: Assessment
Assessment Strategy	The assessment has been designed to give students the opportunity to demonstrate learning in an applied setting. Students will focus on an organisational system or subsystem and appraise how well it meets customer needs. Further, they will be able to use their knowledge from the module to aid their analysis and to provide workable recommendations that will enhance the ability of the system or subsystem to meet customer needs. Students will present their initial ideas pertaining to the resolution of issues in meeting customer needs for formative feedback during a workshop based assessed timed verbal presentation.
