Seminar Portfolio This piece of assessment requires a student to write short synopses of 450-500 words each about topics covered in seminars and lectures, based on the reading done in preparation for the classes and on discussions in seminars. Students are encouraged to write a number of synopses but the mark will be based on the average of the best 3, so the approach is both formative and summative. This assessment is designed provide students with the opportunity to develop their skills in gathering information and presenting it in summary form, as well as ensure engagement with some core issues covered in the module. 2. Essay This assessment requires students to write an essay (1500 words) on any aspect of the issues covered in the module, incorporating comparative political analysis (e.g. by comparing different countries). A list of essay titles will be provided but students will also be able to rework these to reflect their own specific interests (subject to approval of the course team). The essay should include an account of developments in the chosen area of comparative politics and present a coherent academic analysis, supported by appropriate references and a bibliography. Essays should link empirical developments with theoretical and explanatory perspectives. The assessment will provide students with an opportunity to develop their skills in advancing a clear and persuasive argument, using comparative academic analysis. 3. Seen Exam This piece of assessment will require a student to answer two exam questions in two hours, with the questions provided in advance. The exam is designed to test both students' knowledge regarding the topics examined in this module and their essay-writing abilities. The exam is designed to assess students' ability to offer clearly written and expressed critical analysis under specific time constraints.
