Part 3: Teaching and learning methods

Teaching and learning methods: The teaching and learning strategy for this module is embedded within a situated learning model where learning takes place in the context to which it refers – in this case the internet and world wide web. Where possible teaching and learning will involve computer mediated communication as a vehicle for, and an object of, enquiry based learning. The teaching and learning methods are focused on development of subject knowledge and understanding together with acquisition of work-relevant transferable skills that will enhance the personal and professional development of our students.

Scheduled Learning:

The teaching and learning strategy will be realised through workshops organised around the model of the flipped classroom. The latter prescribes a reversal of traditional teaching where students gain first exposure to new material outside of the classroom, usually via reading or lecture videos, allowing class time to be used to focus on the work of assimilating, embedding and enhancing knowledge through activities such as collaborative investigation, problem-solving, discussion or debates. The main purpose of flipping the classroom is to shift from passive to active learning in order to achieve deep learning of subject specific knowledge and to enhance development of higher level cognitive skills such as analysis, synthesis and evaluation.

Independent learning:

This will include individual and team-based study, completion of essential and recommended reading, preparation for collaborative group-based tasks, case-study preparation, wiki-building, blogging and preparation and completion of formative and summative assignments.

Students will spend three hours per week (i.e.72 hours in total) in workshops and guided tutorials. The workshops will be of two hours duration and will involve both face to face and in-world interaction. Tutorials will last for one hour and will involve both synchronous and asynchronous forms of computer-mediated communication. In addition, there is an expectation that students will spend time engaged in independent reading and/or research.

Workshops are 48 hours; synchronous and asynchronous communications are 24 hours.

Module Learning outcomes:

MO1 A detailed understanding of a range of sociological approaches to the study of cyberspace

MO2 An in-depth understanding of origins and development of material, symbolic and experiential narratives of cyberspace

MO3 An awareness of current issues, controversies and trends in the sociology of cyberspace

MO4 The ability to reflect critically on the strengths and weaknesses of sociological analysis of computer-mediated social interaction

MO5 An awareness of the ethical and methodological issues associated with the practice of sociological research in cyberspace

MO6 Understanding of a range of research strategies and methods and ability to assess the appropriateness of their use

Hours to be allocated: 300

Contact hours:

Independent study/self-guided study = 228 hours

Face-to-face learning = 72 hours

Total = 300

Reading list: The reading list for this module can be accessed at readinglists.uwe.ac.uk via the following link <https://uwe.rl.talis.com/modules/uzssiq-30-3.html>

Part 4: Assessment

Assessment strategy: It is axiomatic that effective assessment must test achievement of the set learning outcomes. In summary, the learning outcomes for this module relate to achievement of sociological understanding of the effects of the society wide engagement with digital media on institutional and interactional orders.

The assessment strategy for this module aims to measure the level of sociological knowledge and understanding achieved by students through a blend of summative assessment (assessment of learning) and formative assessment (assessment for learning).

Summative Assessment:

Personal technology narrative (3000 words) will enable students to produce an experiential narrative of their use of digital technology informed by critically reflective application of the sociological imagination.

Group Presentation:

An in-class group presentation will enable students to demonstrate sociological knowledge and understanding of processes of social transformation driven by the wide-spread use of digital media and also to display evidence of an ability to apply such knowledge and understanding to analysis of specific social issues and problems. Practical skills related to the process of collaborative learning will also be enhanced.

Formative Assessment and Feedback:

Enquiry based learning tasks will be set throughout the delivery of the module in order to provide opportunities for group learning and for formative feedback. It should be noted that marks from these exercises will not contribute directly to the summative marks for the module. Synchronous and asynchronous communications (for example presentations, wiki's and blogs) will be evaluated and commented on by tutors in the course of the module.

Assessment criteria used for each element in assessment strategy will be provided for students via Blackboard.

Assessment components:

Presentation - Component A (First Sit)

Description: Group Presentation (Enquiry Based Learning)

Weighting: 50 %

Final assessment: Yes

Group work: Yes

Learning outcomes tested: MO1, MO2, MO3, MO4, MO5, MO6

Written Assignment - Component B (First Sit)

Description: Narrative Report (3000 words)

Weighting: 50 %

Final assessment: No

Group work: No

Learning outcomes tested: MO1, MO2, MO3, MO4, MO5, MO6

Presentation - Component A (Resit)

Description: Oral Assessment (Enquiry Based Learning)

Weighting: 50 %

Final assessment: Yes

Group work: Yes

Learning outcomes tested:

Written Assignment - Component B (Resit)

Description: Narrative Report (3000 words)
