Part 2: Description

You will cover:

1. Understanding International Organisations: Structure, diversity, gender and horizontal/vertical integration in organisations.

2. Intercultural Working – Leading and managing culturally diverse teams.

3. Organisational Culture: Is it something an organisation 'has' or something an organisation 'is' - implications? To what extent do different national cultures influence organisational cultures?

4. Power and Politics: Classical and relational perspectives on the unequal distribution and ethical use of power in organisations.

5. 'Managing' change and emotion: How far can we control change? What role do organisations play in attempting to control or shape their employees emotions?

6. Approaches to strategic human resource management (SHRM): vertical and horizontal integration (Resource Based View, Best Practice, Best Fit).7. Resourcing: Labour market planning; Staff turnover; resourcing and selection

8. Managing Performance: What motivates in the workplace? The role of performance management and vertical integration; an exploration of links with reward.

9. Learning: Training, learning and development defined; how they are delivered and why they matter.

10. Bringing it all together: Exploring overlaps, links and tensions between topics and the different perspectives that can be used in analysis.

Teaching Strategy - Classes offer a combination of formal lectures with a variety of participative activities, including case studies, group discussions, and problem-solving activities. The ethos of the module is based around participation and therefore places a high value on the contribution of students in exploring and evaluating theory, and in being able to apply that knowledge to an organisational context. Part of an early class session will be devoted to academic requirements relevant to the assessment requirements of this module.

Learning Strategy – Students will need to carry out reading (of set texts, and other preparatory material including case studies) before class. The learning which emerges will be enhanced by informal group discussion before, during and after formal classes. The preparatory reading and assignment preparation involve private study. The Study Skills web page provides support and guidance in a range of areas, and specific guidance will be provided by tutors on sources of information for students' work, including web- and library-based sources. This is in addition to support provided in other modules of the programme. Blackboard – This module is supported by Blackboard, where students will be able to find all necessary module documentation, including detailed session outlines, instructions

Part 3: Assessment

- This module encourages students to engage critically and in some depth with a wide range of literature, and to evaluate the way that this literature can be applied in practice in a variety of international organisational settings. The assessment is designed to reflect this ethos and is intended to develop and demonstrate these approaches to learning.
- Students must choose topics from the course and construct a critical analysis of a case study. The case study will be determined by the course team, and may use the medium of film, or may be literature based.
- The first part of the assessment will require students to complete a 750 word assignment to be completed after session 7. This element, worth 20% of the marks for the module) provides an opportunity for students to learn about their strengths and weakness in terms of academic writing skills at Masters' level prior to the completion of the full case study which is submitted after the end of the module.
