Contact Hours/Scheduled Hours	Contact will be 3 hours per week consisting of a combination of interactive lectures and seminars.
Teaching and Learning Methods	The lectures are designed to provide a framework for discussion and analysis. They will provide insights into issues and debates, as well as highlighting the importance of people, places and events. The lectures will set out the context in which a more detailed examination is undertaken in the seminars. The lectures will be delivered with the aid of PowerPoint slides, which will be uploaded on Blackboard in advance. Some lectures will include interactive sessions when students will be encouraged in discussing and debating on relevant topics. The seminars are designed to enable students to investigate an issue or theme in greater detail. The onus is on student to keep up to date with the reading on a weekly basis. Seminars work better if everyone has done some preparatory reading, has thought about interesting questions to ask and has come along prepared to discuss the theme in question. Students will be encouraged to explore the wide variety of material contained in our library, which can be equally useful when preparing for a seminar or writing an essay. Equally important, they will be strongly encouraged to use journal articles and get into the habit of using the journals for all facets of the work. In addition staff will be available during the semester during their office hours (2 hours a week) for face to face meetings. Queries and extended discussions with staff can also be approached virtually through e-mail. Extensive use will be made of Blackboard for weekly guided independent study work; to support students' learning; to facilitate interactions between students e.g. for group project work and to provide feedback with quizzes and forums. Students will also be directed towards the University Library online Study Skills resources for the development of skills appropriate to the level and style of the module. In addition a number of e-learning resources will also be used: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The MySkills Study Skills website at http://www.uwe.ac.uk/library/resources/hub/

Reading Strategy

All students will be encouraged to make full use of the print and electronic resources available to them through membership of the University. These include a range of electronic journals and a wide variety of resources available through websites and information gateways. The University Library web pages provide access to subject relevant resources and services and to the library catalogue. Many of these resources can be accessed remotely. Students will be presented with opportunities within the curriculum to develop their information retrieval and evaluation skills in order to identify such resources effectively.

Students will be directed and expected to undertake essential reading throughout the module. However, depending upon specific topics addressed over the course of the module, students will be expected to undertake additional reading for themselves. A list of indicative textbooks and relevant journals is provided below but students are expected to recognise that these may be starting points only and that they should extend their reading as widely as is necessary to demonstrate a comprehensive knowledge.

	Blackboard – This module is supported by Blackboard, where students will be able to find all necessary module documentation, including guidance on Further Reading within the module handbook/outline. Direct links to information resources will also be provided from within Blackboard UWE Libraries – Engagement with online resources available through the library will be a core requirement of this module. There is no essential text for this module; however, we will suggest useful foundational texts to which they could refer. Students will be provided with a wide variety of written, audio and video texts that will be taken from recommended text books, journal articles, national and international newspapers and websites. Journal articles will be available electronically, or in the library. Students will be guided throughout the module as to the appropriate texts. Module guides will also reflect the range of reading to be carried out. Students will be told texts to read from books and from academic papers within the module handbook. Online videos and audio recordings will be recommended too of economists and policy makers.
Indicative Reading List	The following list is offered to provide validation panels/accrediting bodies with an indication of the type and level of information students may be expected to consult. As such, its currency may wane during the life span of the module specification. CURRENT advice on additional reading will be available via the module guide or Blackboard pages. Recommended Reading from: Mishkin, F. Part 3: Assessment

Assessment Strategy	This module deploys a mix of formative and summative assessment. Formative assessment takes various forms and will occur throughout the module; it may include peer feedback on informal activities. The tutor will also make a non formal assessment of students' knowledge and abilities throughout the semester. In lectures and seminars, the tutor will ask questions of students about the module and provide instant feedback. Summative assessment will employ two vehicles: a coursework in the form of a 2000 word essay and a formal 2-hour written exam. These two methods have been chosen to make a thorough assessment of students' knowledge and skill. The essay is designed to allow students broaden their knowledge of one particular aspect of the course of their choosing. And the formal exam will cover all aspects of the module which will allow assessment of students' broad knowledge.
