STUDENT AND ACADEMIC SERVICES

Teaching and Learning Methods: Lectures will sometimes be driven by theory, sometimes by current events but always connecting the theory to reality in order to provide students with tools to analyse economic problems and to understand the limitations of theory and modelling. This will result in a deeper learning experience.

Seminars will take a variety of forms, and students may be asked to present to the class their answers to questions and problems which will be provided during the year. These seminars will aim to develop student's analytical ability and problem-solving skills. A proportion of the total available time will be devoted to group presentations; the aim being to advance group working skills that contribute to greater employment likelihood of students upon graduation.

The allocation of time indicated above will be valid over the entire semester, but, for pedagogical reasons, the allocation of time in any given week will be more flexible. For example, it is unlikely that the students will be ready to give a presentation in the first few weeks of the term. If necessary, the first few weeks will be devoted entirely to lectures and seminars, so as to free time for group presentations and careers activities in later weeks.

In addition staff will be available during the semester during their office hours (2 hours a week) for face to face meetings.

Queries and extended discussions with staff can also be approached virtually through e-mail.

Extensive use will be made of Blackboard for weekly guided independent study work and to support students' learning.

Students will also be directed towards the University Library online Study Skills resources for the development of skills appropriate to the level and style of the module. In addition a number of e-learning resources will also be used:

The MySkills Study Skills website at
<http://www.uwe.ac.uk/library/resources/hub/>

Skills4study (s4s) as part of the MySkills resource (Academic reading and note making; Critical thinking; Academic writing; Referencing and plagiarism)

There are 3 hours of contact time with staff that a student can expect in a week, this will be a combination of lectures, seminars, tutorials, group presentations and practical classes.

Part 3: Assessment

This module deploys a mix of formative and summative assessment.

Formative assessment takes various forms and will occur throughout the module; it may include peer feedback on informal activities. Summative assessment will be multi-faceted. The first opportunity for summative assessment is a 1,500 word research-based report on the changing global economy and the effect this will have on the rich (developed) countries and businesses from those countries. The examination will assess the entire module content and will occur at the end of the module. Answers that illustrate understanding, analysis and application of theory and that incorporate current events will be rewarded accordingly.

Summative Assessment:

Component A:

An online examination undertaken in a 24 hour window, based on the entire course syllabus that will relate to all of the learning outcomes. The examination will be mainly essay based and constitutes 70 per cent of the final grade.

Component B:

STUDENT AND ACADEMIC SERVICES

A 1,500 word report.

Formative Assessment:

Engagement with other students in seminars that encourages a sense of belonging.
