Demonstrate time keeping and professional conduct (Component B)</li> </ol>
Syllabus Outline	This module introduces students to the basics of PR and communication theory in a

	variety of contexts. The module begins with a historical overview of PR and related forms of communication through which its contemporary relevance can be understood. PR is then analysed through the prism of communication theory, where its significance as a particular mode of communication can be understood. The contemporary forms and practices of communication and PR are explicated with the use of examples drawn from differing organisational contexts – from public and governmental organisations to commercial businesses. We consider the distinct needs of different organisations, especially in respect of their clients, and how events impact on the strategies of these organisations. Through these considerations we outline key concepts and theories in communication, PR and marketing.
Contact Hours/Scheduled Hours	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Students can expect a total of 24 hours scheduled contact time for this module within the context of their other learning and teaching activities. Reading Strategy	Essential reading may be supplied as printed copies or made available electronically via Blackboard. Essential reading may include not just specific articles but set text books. In addition, students will expected to undertake further reading and viewing from a list of texts and resources chosen especially to support the module, listed in the Handbook and revised annually, or from topical items identified during the run of the module. These will help develop students understanding of the key topics and we will recommend they explore a selection in whole or in part. Most resources should be available in the campus library or electronically via the web but exceptionally they may not be and this will be indicated in the Module Handbook. Formal opportunities for students to develop their library access and information skills will be provided within the induction period and via the GDP. Additional support is available through the Library Services web pages, including interactive tutorials on finding books and journals, evaluating information and referencing.

Part 3: Assessment
Assessment Strategy	Students will be required to produce Component A: Portfolio. This is a research-based essay portfolio in which they will illustrate their understanding of the relation between public relations, organisations and the public by drawing on key readings and theoretical debates, drawing on evidence from their own case studies to further animate the issues at hand. The portfolio will include examples of PR writing by the students, on which they will produce press releases and reflect on the work that they have produced. Time will be given over in seminars for students to develop and discuss their essays and non assessed formative feedback from tutors and peers will be given. <table border="1" data-bbox="507 2007 1425 2087"> <tr> <td data-bbox="507 2007 879 2087">Assessment Criteria</td> <td data-bbox="879 2007 1102 2087">Relating to Learning Outcomes</td> <td data-bbox="1102 2007 1425 2087">Source of Evidence</td> </tr> </table>		Assessment Criteria	Relating to Learning Outcomes	Source of Evidence
