Part 2: Description
Educational Aims: See Learning Outcomes Outline Syllabus: A range of concepts, development of practical skills, introductions to practitioners and historical/contemporary examples that challenge students' pre-conceptions about Fine Art and develop their awareness of the creative opportunities and possibilities afforded through Fine Art practices form the focus for this module. Workshops, group work, lectures and independent study will focus intellectual, critical and creative enquiry. Through experimentation with concept, skills, processes, materials and methods students will be expected to develop and present a body of work that explores a particular theme relevant to their own ideas and ambitions. Throughout the module, students will be encouraged to work in a creative, investigative and experimental manner. Through individual feedback tutorials and seminar group critiques and discussion, they will be expected to develop the ability to begin to place their own work within a range of art, design, media and broader cultural contexts and practice(s). Critical engagement and reflection on practice will be supported through tutorial and seminar group activity. There is an emphasis on exploring and questioning media/forms and investigating

how meaning relates to this. Issues of the appropriateness and relevance of media, context and themes that you are exploring are discussed. Throughout the module you have the opportunity to attend lectures by visiting artists, which will raise issues concerning meaning and media in relation to the evolution of an artist's practice. During this module you are expected to determine which programme option choice is appropriate for you to pursue at level 2. This is supported by induction talks about the two programme option choices (Fine Art / Art and Visual Culture).

Teaching and Learning Methods: This module is designed both to allow for orientation within Fine Arts in terms of knowledge and skills. Learning is supported throughout this module by a variety of different teaching approaches and learning activities, these will include;

Practical skills are delivered through workshops and studio activities that involve both demonstration and practice. These workshops will look specifically at building confidence and a level of proficiency in the disciplines studied. Emphasis will be placed on establishing a meaningful relationship between conceptual and making activities. Analytical, evaluative and planning skills will be supported through seminars/tutorials/individual critiques, in order to encourage students to adopt an ongoing engagement with ideas/processes/methods of production beyond the familiar. Critical engagement and reflection on ideas/practices examined within the module will be documented and presented for assessment in the supporting and development work.

Scheduled learning includes lectures, seminars, tutorials, project supervision, demonstration, workshops; fieldwork; external visits; supervised time in studio/workshop.

Independent learning includes hours engaged with studio practice, essential reading, assignment preparation and completion etc.

Students can expect a total of 108 hours scheduled contact time for this module within the context of their other learning and teaching activities. This includes tutorials, group critiques, lectures, seminars, site visits / field trips, studio-based sessions, inductions, workshops, field work, work-based learning or project supervision.

Contact time may also take a synchronous virtual form rather than face-to-face, through the use of email discussion groups, virtual learning environments (VLEs) and other technology-aided means. It can also take place in a work-based setting.

Part 3: Assessment

Assessment strategies within the programme that this module contributes to reflect the Faculty of Art, Creative Industries and Education's philosophy which considers assessment to be part of the learning process.

Formative and summative assessments are designed to provide the opportunity for students to understand and reflect upon their achievements and to support the monitoring of progress by tutors and students. Assessment methods used are varied, are relevant in demonstrating achievement to both academic and industry stakeholders, and form a coherent programme of assessment which is designed to offer students the maximum opportunity to demonstrate the skills, knowledge and experience that they have gained through the course of study, as well as to support ongoing and continuous improvement in their individual creative practice and development as practitioner-researchers.

The principle of 'learning through making' is core to learning strategies in the Department of Creative Industries – these learning activities are then expanded into and through an exploration of contemporary practice in relevant and related subject areas.

At assessment, therefore, students are expected to present evidence of work which demonstrates engagement with the minimum number of learning hours for the module (contact and independent study hours).

Forms of assessment used as part of the overall programme include:

Presentation and participation in studio-critique
Poster presentation
