Part 2: Description

Overview: The module encourages students to further explore and demonstrate their personal goals, aims and ambitions within the remit of contemporary Illustration practice.

Educational Aims: The emphasis within the module is on self-directed study that consolidates the application of a coherent and consistent methodology based on an understanding of research, exploration, experimentation, development, realisation and dissemination.

Outline Syllabus: With tutorial support, students devise and write their own programme of study within the module. Through this process students are expected to negotiate access to resources as determined by their proposal. The consolidation, application and development of technical skill and use of materials is selected according to the intentions explicit in the work.

During the module students progress their work through sketchbooks that contain contextual and cultural reference material that informs their work.

An evaluative statement (written or alternative format submission) complementing the final body of work that demonstrates an understanding of individual creative practice in relation to contemporary critical, cultural and professional contexts. The students are required to critically reflect on research sources, application of methodology and the success of the outcome in relation to their original intentions.

The module is realised through the presentation of a body of work. This work, including evidence of research, development, realisation and self evaluation (1,500 words or equivalent) forms the basis for assessment.

Teaching and Learning Methods: This module focuses on a student's ability to direct and manage their own learning support through tutorial discussion and feedback. Students negotiate appropriate technical support both within and beyond the confines of the institution. The ability to evaluate their needs in relation to the proposal is seen as central to the demonstration of personal creative development and professional practice.

Scheduled learning includes lectures, seminars, tutorials, project support, workshops; supported time in studio/workshop.

Independent learning includes 250 hours engaged with essential reading, assignment preparation and completion etc. These sessions constitute an average time per level.

Students can expect a total of 350 hours scheduled contact time for this module within the context of their other learning and teaching activities. This includes tutorials, group critiques, lectures, seminars, site visits / field trips, studio-based sessions, inductions, workshops, field work, work-based learning or project supervision.

Contact time may also take a synchronous virtual form rather than face-to-face, through the use of email discussion groups, virtual learning environments (VLEs) and other technology-aided means. It can also take place in a work-based setting.

STUDENT AND ACADEMIC SERVICES

Part 3: Assessment

Assessment strategies within the programme that this module contributes to reflect the Faculty of Art, Creative Industries and Education's philosophy which considers assessment to be part of the learning process.

Formative and summative assessments are designed to provide the opportunity for students to understand and reflect upon their achievements, and to support the monitoring of progress by tutors and students. Assessment methods used are varied, are relevant in demonstrating achievement to both academic and industry stakeholders, and form a coherent programme of assessment which is designed to offer students the maximum opportunity to demonstrate the skills, knowledge and experience that they have gained through the course of study, as well as to support ongoing and continuous improvement in their individual creative practice and development as practitioner-researchers.

The principle of 'learning through making' is core to learning strategies in the Department of Creative Industries – these learning activities are then expanded into and through an exploration of contemporary practice in relevant and related subject areas.

At assessment, therefore, students are expected to present evidence of work which demonstrates engagement with the minimum number of learning hours for the module (contact and independent study hours).

Forms of assessment used as part of the overall programme include:

Presentation and participation in studio-critique

Poster presentation

Group and individual visual presentations

Group and individual verbal presentations

Written Assignments – forms of writing relevant to the creative industries, including academic/essay and industry focused/report writing

Group critiques

Peer and self-assessment

Evaluative and reflective outcomes, including visual, verbal and written

Formative and summative assessment activities that involve students participating in the evaluation of presented work (their own and others') take place throughout the programme. Participation in and attendance at these sessions forms part of the assessed content of the module as a result of this.

Feedback (verbal and/or in writing) at regular points throughout the module provides students with a clear understanding of their progress and advice about how this can be improved.
