criteria.

At this level, students are expected to demonstrate sophisticated use and application of appropriate media, materials, processes and techniques in the experimentation with and development of their ideas. During this module they have the opportunity to showcase these methodologies and to evidence their technical expertise through the extensive development and testing of prototypes and samples.

For assessment, students are required to present their project proposals, developmental work, prototypes and supporting materials and research. This enables students to analyse the outcome of the module in relation to the initial proposal of work, and to use this to begin to identify a programme of work for the subsequent 60 credit module.

Teaching and Learning Methods: The teaching and learning methods of this module are aimed at supporting the students in developing an individual creative methodology in relation to professional fashion communication practices.

Students are expected to develop a Project proposal based on their creative and technical strengths and individual research interests. This is developed and negotiated through group seminars or activities, and group / individual tutorials.

Progress is monitored through regular group seminars that also serve to offer interim goals to support students' progress and time management, and studio practice presentations that monitor student progress and enable professional communication of ideas.

Students are expected to contextualise their practice within relevant fashion communication and critical contexts throughout the module; this is supported by the focus of group tutorials and through attendance at lectures by visiting speakers, workshops and external opportunities.

Students are fully supported in accessing faculty Technical resources to further develop their practical skills and realise their work.

Specific technical workshops will be organised by the module leader according to the needs of the student group. Students are also expected to negotiate their own access to these centres as part of the planning and proposal process.

Scheduled learning includes lectures, seminars, tutorials, project supervision, demonstration, workshops; external visits, supervised time in studio/workshop.

Independent learning includes hours engaged with creative, academic and technical development, visual and textual research, workshop activity and learning via the VLE. These activities constitute an average time per level.

Students can expect a total of 72 hours scheduled contact time for this module within the context of their other learning and teaching activities. This includes tutorials, group critiques, lectures, seminars, site visits / field trips, studio-based sessions, inductions, workshops, field work, work-based learning or project supervision.

Contact time may also take a synchronous virtual form rather than face-to-face, through the use of email discussion groups, virtual learning environments (VLEs) and other technology-aided means. It can also take place in a work-based setting.

Part 3: Assessment

This module is assessed 100% via component A: A body of work which should include evidence of extensive research and development for the selfinitiated brief which follows in the subsequent 60c module. This research and development should include extensive primary and secondary research, critical analysis, idea development, creative experimentation and testing, and participation in formative presentations and critiques. A more detailed breakdown of the content of the body of work required will be outlined in the module handbook.

Within the Body of work students are expected to present evidence of work which demonstrates engagement with the minimum number of contact hours for the module, as well as the minimum number of independent study hours.

Individual creative development and evidence of independent study time will form part of the formative and summative assessment processes.

Feedback at formative and summative assessment points (verbal and/or in writing) provides students with a clear understanding of the level of their achievement, their progress and advice about how this can be improved.

Assessment strategies within the programme that this module contributes to reflect the Faculty of Art, Creative Industries and Education's philosophy which considers assessment to be part of the learning process.

Formative and summative assessments are regarded as positive learning tools and feedback from assessment offers students clear guidance with regard to future development. Assessment strategies support students understanding of their learning process and are designed to build on a pro-active approach to learning. Self and peer evaluation constitute an important part of formative assessment.

Formative and summative assessments are designed to provide the opportunity for students to understand and reflect upon their achievements and to support the monitoring of progress by tutors and students. Assessment methods used are varied in demonstrating achievement to both academic and industry stakeholders, and form a coherent programme of assessment which is designed to offer students the maximum opportunity to demonstrate the skills, knowledge and experience that they have gained through the course of study, as well as to support ongoing and continuous improvement in their individual creative practice and development as practitioners.

Forms of assessment used as part of this module include:

Presentation and participation in studio-critique (formative)
 Portfolio review and assessment (formative/summative)
 Group and individual visual/verbal presentations (formative)
 Peer and self-assessment (formative and summative)
 Evaluative and reflective outcomes, including visual, verbal and written (formative and summative)

Feedback (verbal and/or in writing) at regular points throughout the module provides students with a clear understanding of their progress and advice about how this can be improved.
