Part 2: Description

Overview: This module supports trainees to develop an expanded, nuanced, detailed, and evidence-informed understanding of the skills, understanding and strategies needed to become a primary teacher. This includes an understanding of the impact of the context of learners lives, and how to teach thoughtfully, adaptively and effectively to enable all learners to thrive, including those with additional needs. Trainees become skilled at using assessment to support and advance learning, and at reflecting on their own teaching, progress and development. Trainees also explore underlying values in teaching, and ways to support their own resilience and wellbeing.

Features: Not applicable

Educational aims: Further develop trainees' critical, evidence-based understanding of theories and practices of learning and teaching, and to critique and use appropriate research evidence to improve practice and learner outcomes.

Support trainees to understand the wide range of factors that impact learners and their learning environment, and to use current research to support their use of adaptive teaching and to create a positive and enabling classroom culture to improve the outcomes of all learners.

Provide opportunities to understand a range of strategies for assessing learner progress and how to use this to inform planning.

Support trainees to evaluate their practice using a range of strategies

Enable trainees to reflect on their professional learning, their underpinning values, and their vision for teaching and learning with reference to subject/s and phases as appropriate.

Support trainees to further develop and synthesise their professional learning in subject knowledge and understanding, and in general pedagogical approaches, and as they apply to subject/s and phases appropriate to their studies.
