Section 2: Programme Overview, Aims and Learning Outcomes

Part A: Programme Overview, Aims and Learning Outcomes

Overview: This unique and innovative programme draws on the experience of two established, internationally renowned institutions: the Mulberry Bush Organisation and the University of the West of England and continues a Foundation Degree programme that has run successfully since 2008, receiving Sector Endorsement from the Children's Workforce Development Council (CWDC) and being awarded a regional National Training Award in 2012.

In the first instance, it builds upon the Mulberry Bush's experience and reputation in training, developing and supporting staff to meet the emotional, educational and development needs of children and young people whose experiences of loss, trauma, abuse and emotional deprivation have severely affected their capacities to form meaningful attachments, be looked after, or enjoy and utilise the normal social and educational opportunities for learning and development. Within this programme, this experience is underpinned and supported by the University's expertise within higher education, professional training and academic quality. Aspects of the programme will be delivered jointly.

Educational Aims: The overall aims of the programme are to:

To provide a professional training and qualification which is accredited by a university and incorporates the relevant statutory training and competency requirements;

To provide students with a professional training and qualification that has a sound theoretical base, and one that is underpinned by an application of psycho-dynamic theory and thinking supported by attachment and systemic theory.

To provide a training that is underpinned by an understanding of the institutional and organisational context in which practice takes place, and the student's own role and responsibilities within that;

To provide students with a professional training that places strong emphasis on the value of regular supervision and the utilisation of groups which are designed to develop the students' reflective skills and the personal and professional development that comes from experiential learning.

To develop the students' ability to work as part of a professional team, and to develop effective relationships with colleagues as well as children and young people, which are underpinned by self-awareness and an understanding of relevant ethical issues.

To assist the students in developing an appropriate value and belief system and their ability to demonstrate values that are relevant to anti-discriminatory practice.

To provide accredited training that includes and assesses the competencies required within the relevant professional and statutory standards, including the National Occupation Standards.

To develop transferable skills that are relevant to practitioners working with children and young people across a range of professional contexts.

To prepare and support students to work effectively with and support children and young people who show social, emotional and behavioural difficulties.

Make full and effective use of the opportunities and experiences within the workplace setting.

Programme Learning Outcomes:

On successful completion of this programme graduates will achieve the following learning outcomes.

Knowledge and Understanding

- A1. Relevant theories relating to therapeutic work with children and young people, and in relation to working with individual children, as well as in group, family and institutional contexts
- A2. The ways in which children's early experience impacts on how and what they communicate, on their capacities for forming meaningful, trusting relationships, and their personal, emotional, social and educational development
- A3. The ways in which the nature of the work and the context in which it takes place impacts on the practitioner and of the ways in which the practitioner has an impact on the children and young people through the ways in which he/she communicates and relates to those around him/her
- A4. Key ethical issues and perspectives, and their relevance to the practitioner's role and practice, including issues of equality, inclusion and diversity related to child care policy and the area of working with excluded children
