For coding purposes, a numerical sequence (1, 2, 3 etc.) should be used for successive programme specifications where 2 replaces 1, and where there are no concurrent specifications. A sequential decimal numbering (1.1; 1.2, 2.1; 2.2 etc) should be used where there are different and concurrent programme specifications

Section 2: Educational aims of the programme

The programme aims to provide the students with a flexible comprehensive educational programme at postgraduate level for students seeking to follow a management career. It also provides opportunities to pursue specialist subjects that may be of particular interest.

The programme aims to provide the students with:

- a systematic understanding of knowledge, and a critical awareness of current problems and/or new insights, much of which is at, or informed by, the forefront of the academic discipline of management
- a comprehensive understanding of techniques applicable to research and advanced scholarship in the discipline of management
- originality in the application of knowledge, together with a practical understanding of how established techniques of research and enquiry are used to create and interpret knowledge in the discipline of management
- conceptual understanding that enables them to evaluate critically current research and advanced scholarship in the discipline of management
- conceptual understanding that enables them to evaluate methodologies and develop critiques of them and, where appropriate, to propose new hypotheses
- the qualities and transferable skills necessary for employment requiring the exercise of initiative and personal responsibility and decision-making in complex and unpredictable situations

On completion of the programme students will be able to:

- deal with complex issues both systematically and creatively, make sound judgements in the absence of complete data, and communicate their conclusions clearly to specialist and non-specialist audiences
- demonstrate self-direction and originality in tackling and solving problems, and act autonomously in planning and implementing tasks at a professional or equivalent level
- continue to advance their knowledge and understanding, and to develop new skills to a high level

Section 3: Learning outcomes of the programme

Section 7: Student learning: distinctive features and support

CURRICULUM DESIGN CONTENT AND ORGANISATION

The programme is designed and delivered within a postgraduate modular scheme which allows credit accumulation and flexibility.

TEACHING, LEARNING ASSESSMENT

This programme is designed in support of the University Learning and Teaching and Assessment Strategy which is designed to underpin all programmes. The vision for the strategy is that:

'We will become an inclusive and welcoming learning community, actively engaged with global society and based on values of mutual respect, critical engagement and self-awareness'

The strategy contains 6 key aims, each with a number of objectives, which are linked and build cumulatively on each other. The aims are listed below:

1. To be a university that is learning centred in all that it does.
2. To develop approaches to learning, teaching and assessment that are underpinned by shared values and ethical frameworks, sound health and safety practices and informed by research and professional practice.
3. To develop inclusive, flexible and accessible curricula, learning spaces and resources that enable personalized learning in campus, placement and work-based settings.
4. To provide diverse modes of assessment both for and of learning.
5. To develop learners who know and value themselves as open-minded, reflective and inter-dependent learners, and participants, employees, self-employed professional and entrepreneurs in global settings and as global citizens.
6. To develop self-critical learners who value others as collaborators in their learning and co-constructors of knowledge and its exchange.

The strategy is designed to be continuously evolving and provides a base for further refinement and development. An important reality check for the statements above is the extent to which students enrolled on our programmes can verify their experiences of learning, teaching and assessment in the light of the strategy aims and objectives. Feedback from students through module and programme evaluations and programme management committees is critical to the successful achievement of our vision.

The teaching and learning and assessment strategy of UWE encourages students to take responsibility for aspects of their learning and staff to take responsibility for facilitating that learning. The balance of student and staff responsibility varies according to individual student profiles, academic level and according to the nature of the learning outcomes the students are expected to meet. Ultimately, the aim of this programme is to enable students to progress to a high level of autonomy in learning and thus engender life long learning within a socially inclusive environment.

To achieve this, a variety of learning approaches have been integrated throughout the programme with an overall emphasis on active student participation. Guided learning (including lectures, tutorials, seminars, workshops, visiting speakers, on-line and networked learning, electronic workshops and conferencing, case studies), group learning and independent learning are used throughout the programme.

The teaching and learning methods used in the programme intend to challenge the existing perspectives of the students and encourage creative thinking. Thus many of the approaches used, including those that are case based, set concepts and problems in a wide range of contexts to add depth and complexity and to ensure an applied focus. Group learning approaches also challenge students in a number of ways.

Teaching is based on research literature, professional experience and significant use of debate and discussion. Through didactic pedagogy students are challenged to defend their thinking. The dissertation allows students to explore a substantial issue utilising appropriate concepts, frameworks and methodologies in a highly independent manner.

Assessment is an integral part of the teaching and learning process. The range of assessments indicated have been incorporated to:

- test the students' ability to integrate concepts theories and practice;
- ascertain their learning strengths and weaknesses and continuing development needs;
- expose students to a variety of assessment methods in order to promote the growth of their life-long learning skills;
- test students' level of skills development.

The assessment strategy comprises of formal tutor assessment, informal tutor assessment and informal peer review and feedback. Formal testing of the knowledge base, intellectual, subject specific and transferable skills is through a combination of unseen and open book examinations, supervised mini-projects, essays, vivas and presentations. Informal testing of intellectual, subject specific and transferable skills is through class interaction during work on current academic research and understanding, case studies, practical exercises and experiential exercises.

The faculty supports the University's current Academic Regulations and Procedures, and its requirement for controlled conditions to apply to part of the assessment of every module. Forms of assessment commonly used in controlled and non-controlled conditions assessment are: invigilated timed assignments including examinations, presentations, in-class tests, self and peer assessments, individual and group projects and supervised mini-projects and dissertations.

LEARNING RESOURCES

All modules have teaching/learning resource guide and draw on publications and research from academic, industry and international organisation communities.

STUDENT SUPPORT AND GUIDANCE

Student support is provided by academic staff, usually module leaders, for all issues relating to the content and delivery of the module. The Programme Team (academic and administrative) provides timely, accurate and confidential advice where necessary on all aspects of the provision including that relating to fees, assessment arrangements, extenuating circumstances procedures, option choice, timetabling and so on, as well as where and how to access the support provided by the University. The Programme Director and Tutors who are also responsible for ensuring the collection of and response to student feedback using student representatives and Programme Management Committees.

Additional support is provided through library and ICT facilities.

Section 8 Reference points/benchmarks

The programme design reflects:

- Subject benchmarks (QAA Unit in Business and Management - QAA benchmarks for Postgraduate Management Programmes – 2007)
- Descriptor for a qualification at Masters (M) level: Masters degree – extracted from the Framework for Higher Education Qualifications in England, Wales and Northern Ireland, January 2001
- The University's Mission Statement (UWE)
- University teaching and learning policies: UWE and Bristol Business School Teaching and Learning Strategy
- The SEEC Credit Level Descriptors 2001
- Bristol Business School Review of Postgraduate Programmes 2007

This specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if he/she takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information on the learning outcomes, content and teaching, learning and assessment methods of individual modules can be found in module specifications. These are available on the University Intranet.

Programme monitoring and review may lead to changes to approved programmes. There may be a time lag between approval of such changes/modifications and their incorporation into an authorised programme specification. Enquiries about any recent changes to the programme made since this specification was authorised should be made to the relevant Faculty Administrator. Other sources of information are:

- Student Handbook

The University's Disability Statement

The University philosophy is to integrate provision for disabled students within the services offered to all students at the University and so remove the barriers that can be disabling. It aims to provide an inclusive educational experience and so to respond fully to the spirit as well as the letter of current legislation (www.uwe.ac.uk/csa/disability.html).
