Part A: Programme Overview, Aims and Learning Outcomes

Overview: The course includes a range of career-oriented activities, including:

An overview of the process of attaining CILIP chartership for those planning to proceed with this qualification;

Educational Aims: The broad aims of the Programme are to:

Provide suitable advanced level training for librarians, information managers and a range of allied roles, underpinned by staff expertise, research and experience

Enable students to deepen and broaden theoretical knowledge, understanding and analytical abilities in a stimulating and challenging academic environment, informed by current research in the sector

Prepare students for senior and management roles in information environments through providing technical skills and the ability to work with stakeholders to manage resources, formulate solutions and deliver projects

Cater to the changing demands on information experts as flexible, proactive providers of knowledge management services, digital/information literacy training, data management and value-added information processing, synthesis and dissemination

To develop students' abilities reflectively to undertake independent research and continuous professional development

To enable students to engage confidently in academic and professional communication with others

These aims will be achieved through:

Providing a grounding in salient theories of information and information interaction

Providing up-to-date exposure to contemporary tools and methods

Balancing the emphasis between core sector competencies and generic skills enabling the successful marketing and communication of information services

Linking traditional knowledge organisation skills with modern approaches enabled by the internet and digital documents and media

Involving practitioners and subject-matter experts in teaching and assessment

Linking information management work with advances in computer science and information systems

Exposing students to a range of career options afforded by the specialization.

Part C: Higher Education Achievement Record (HEAR) Synopsis

Part D: External Reference Points and Benchmarks

Description of how the following reference points and benchmarks have been used in the design of the programme:

The programme design and module specifications have been extensively guided by the new CILIP Professional Skills and Knowledge Base (PKSB). The PKSB was recently thoroughly refreshed in a yearlong exercise involving consultation with employers, library schools and graduates. It contains a benchmark-like statement of core and generic skills required by the information professional. The PKSB will be used to map module content during the CILIP accreditation review (2015/6). It is therefore essential that course content reflects the PKSB competencies in a rounded manner.

QAA Benchmark statements on assessment design have been followed in designing an assessment regime that uses mixed methods and incorporates peer review and feedback.

The programme adheres to UWE's Academic Regulations and Procedures and assessment is guided by UWE's Online assessment Policy and the Word Count Policy. Dissertation projects are required to follow the guidance laid down in the Research Ethics Committee Policy

Part E: Regulations

Approved to University Regulations and Procedures.
