Valid from September 2008

Variant delivered via Bachelor of Science in Politics programme, College of Humanities and Sciences. Virginia Commonwealth University

Section 2: Educational aims of the programme

- To provide a general educational experience in which students might acquire knowledge, skills and those virtues associated with learning and reflection.
- To promote critical, creative and analytical thinking.
- To assist students to realise their potential.
- To provide a general foundation for the world of work by equipping students with the broad range of skills, understanding and knowledge employed in a wide range of vocations.
- To teach academically challenging and vocationally relevant modules in Politics and other allied disciplines, which will provide students with an understanding of the economic, political and social features of the world.
- To teach those same disciplines in combination with each other and in groupings (“pathways”) organised about specific themes, such that students may benefit from diversity of perspective as well as specificity of discipline.
- To impart a broad range of skills: discipline specific, cognitive and general transferable skills, which, together with the points above provide the student with a sound basis for further study.
- To acknowledge the wide diversity of students and their interests through a flexible programme, enabling the student to choose between a variety of modules and disciplines in order to meet their particular educational needs and to foster their individual development.
- To encourage scholarship and to foster the virtues of objectivity, reflection and judgment.
- To foster critical study, collaborative and individual, independent learning. This aim includes the promotion of self-criticism and reflexive awareness.

Section 3: Learning outcomes of the programme

The award route provides opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate knowledge and understanding, qualities, skills and other attributes in the following areas: ...

A Knowledge and understanding

Learning outcomes

Teaching, Learning and Assessment Strategies

A Knowledge and understanding of:

1. the quality of political knowledge;
2. the range of political theory;

Teaching/learning methods and strategies:

Students acquire knowledge and understanding through lectures, seminars, independent study and assessment preparation. Knowledge and understanding of the range of political theory is conveyed in level 1 module Ideas and Power and

3. the nature and evolution of political systems; 4. political scientific methodology.	the post-level 1 modules in Political Theory and Ideas, at least one of which must be taken by politics students. Understanding and knowledge of political systems is promoted in level 1 module Democracy or Dictatorships?, and level 3 modules in Political Science from which all politics students must select at least one. The methods used to gain knowledge about politics, its quality and limitations, are discussed in lectures and seminars in the core level 2 module, Reading Politics (UPPNGA-30-2). Throughout, the learner is encouraged to undertake independent reading both to supplement and consolidate what is being taught/learnt and to broaden their individual knowledge and understanding of the subject. Assessment: Testing of knowledge and understanding takes place through a range of assessed coursework and examinations. The former include essays, case studies, oral presentations and seminar performance. Assessments in level 1 modules and level 2/3 modules in Political Theory and Ideas test students' knowledge and understanding of the range of political theory. Level 1 modules and those at level 2/3 in Political Science assess students' knowledge and understanding of the nature and evolution of political systems. The quality of political knowledge, and the methods used to acquire it, are assessed through test, examination, seminar exercises and research decision making evaluations in the Reading Politics module at level 2.

This specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if he/she takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information on the learning outcomes, content and teaching, learning and assessment methods of individual modules can be found in module specifications. These are available on the University Intranet.

Programme monitoring and review may lead to changes to approved programmes. There may be a time lag between approval of such changes/modifications and their incorporation into an authorised programme specification. Enquiries about any recent changes to the programme made since this specification was authorised should be made to the relevant Faculty Administrator.
