Part 2: Description

The Philosophy programme at UWE has been designed to provide an intellectually stimulating and relevant learning experience that will produce graduates who are ready and able to realise their full potential, make a positive contribution to their communities, workplaces and society and play their full part in the development of a sustainable global society and knowledge economy. The programme aims to develop in its graduates the skills, knowledge, attitude and confidence to create, critique and make a difference to the world beyond university, and graduates who are prepared for lifelong learning, personal development and success in whatever field they choose to work and participate. The core curriculum of the programme, in particular, is designed with this objective in mind.

More specifically the programme aims:

- To provide a general educational experience through which students will acquire a range of knowledge, skills, and virtues associated with learning and reflection. All of which are designed to prepare them for citizenship and employment in later life
- To foster critical study, collaborative co-operative and independent learning
- To equip students with the transferrable skills of critical and creative thinking, problem-solving, rational negotiation, and the ability to produce quickly articulate public discourse, in written and spoken forms.
- To promote self-criticism and reflexive awareness.
- To give students the opportunity to become familiar with educational and other forms of technology relevant to preparing them for citizenship and employment.
- To help students realise their potential by giving them a space in which to open up for themselves possible pathways for the future, including further study as well as kinds of employment that were not possible for them prior to university or that they were not aware of prior to their studies.
- In the above context, to provide skills appropriate to a wide range of careers – including the self-confidence, autonomy, and creative initiative required to contribute and participate fully in society and to work in all settings – including entrepreneurial settings.
- To offer the opportunity for liberal arts education - especially for students who might not otherwise have such an opportunity.
- To enable students to engage in problems and issues in the 'real world' beyond the university, such as issues in applied ethics, environmental ethics, medical ethics, questions of health and illness (which in the Philosophy programme will involve the students in our many collaborations with other programmes, universities and institutions)
- To provide an outward facing set of educational opportunities that include the opportunity to engage with and provide support to a range of partners and stakeholders in the Bristol area through placements, partnerships and community focused research
- To teach a curriculum, unique among United Kingdom philosophy programmes, covering in depth all of the main areas in the history and current practice of philosophy, in particular giving equal weight to the Anglophone analytic and Continental European traditions of philosophy, and to demonstrate how contemporary philosophy cannot be studied in isolation from the history of philosophy, nor from the problems that beset the contemporary age.

Programme requirements for the purposes of the Higher Education Achievement Record (HEAR)

Through this Philosophy programme, students will acquire analytic skills, greatly improved critical thinking, the ability to rationally dissent and negotiate, to identify and solve problems, to more successfully understand and negotiate the natural and social world both within and without the university. They will acquire a well-rounded knowledge of the history of philosophy and the way this has gone to create philosophy's contemporary state, in both its Anglo-American and European guises. Students' overall understanding and vision of the world will be transformed through this course of study.

Part 5: Entry Requirements

The University's Standard Entry Requirements apply. Tariff points as appropriate for the year of entry - up to date requirements are available through the courses database.

Part 6: Reference Points and Benchmarks

The QAA subject benchmark statements for Philosophy have informed the design of the programme from the outset. The benchmarks were consulted during the planning process and at each stage of the design and development of the programme. They have influenced the selection of the educational aims and learning outcomes against which the teaching, learning and assessment processes have been specified.

University teaching and learning policies are embedded in the educational aims and learning outcomes of the programme. The University's commitment to promoting a diverse, integrated and flexible learning experience is reflected in the rich range of teaching, learning and assessment methods and strategies in evidence in the programme.

The research, scholarly and knowledge exchange activities and interests of staff have shaped the wide ranging provision of philosophical thinking at all levels of the programme. In particular this influence is evidenced by the varied and stimulating choice of option modules at level 3
