Part 2: Description

The programme aims to enable students to:

Broad aims

- Provide an opportunity to develop a creative practice within a chosen field of study;
- Provide an experience of higher education in art, media and design that offers students choice and independence in determining their own abilities and ambitions within a subject discipline;
- Equip students with the intellectual, practical, critical and creative skills necessary for them to locate themselves and their practice within professional, social, historical and cultural contexts;
- Give students the confidence to develop informed independent judgements and critical and intellectual rigour;
- Ensure that the development of key/transferable skills is an integrated part of the curriculum;
- Equip students with the necessary understanding of research techniques and appropriate methodologies;
- Sustain an environment in which individual students may realise their full potential.
- Use a varied assessment methods that are relevant in demonstrating achievement to both academic and industry stakeholders, and form a coherent programme of assessment which is designed to offer students the maximum opportunity to demonstrate the skills, knowledge and experience that they have gained through the course of study, as well as to support ongoing and continuous improvement in their individual creative practice and development as practitioner-researchers.
- Work on the principle of 'learning through making' as a core learning strategy from which to expand into and through an exploration of contemporary practice in relevant and related subject areas.

Specific aims

- Develop knowledge, understanding and skill through an exploration of interdisciplinary practice
- Develop a creative approach to producing media content
- Understand and apply a range of media production methodologies
- Develop a flexible working practice that anticipates the changing professional demands of the media industries
- Develop the intellectual, critical, technical and key/transferable skills necessary to work in either a professional environment or to undertake further study
- Demonstrate critical reflection, evaluation and analysis in the development of their practice
- Locate their work in a professional, critical, historical and social context;
- Progress from reactive to pro-active learning methods to become flexible, resourceful and autonomous learners able to manage increasing complexity.

Part 2: Description
Programme requirements for the purposes of the Higher Education Achievement Record (HEAR)
This course explores the creative potential of filmmaking. Production-based, it establishes strong storytelling, team-working and production skills essential to working in the professional media as well as building technical competence in the craft aspects of cinematography, editing, sound and production design. Graduates develop as confident filmmakers through making work across a wide range of genre and by undertaking work experience to underpin their understanding of professional practice. They are able to engage with critical issues, debates and theories as well as innovative technological developments in their field so they can enter the creative industries as imaginative, resourceful and self-disciplined practitioners.
